

A kitchen countertop with a knife on a cutting board, a tequila bottle to the left of a blender, and a glass to the right. Scene-level hallucinations involve incorrect spatial relations or fabricated interactions between correctly identified objects.